Grieving With HopeJenny Ramey

Grief is a universal life experience that we all share. However, the way that we experience grief is unique to each person, as well as to each loss. From husbands, wives, parents and children to grandparents, siblings, and friends - loss affects everyone. At MCoG, we understand the impact of losing someone. It is this groups mission to reach grieving people more effectively and with greater impact - changing hurt to healing, despair to hope, and transforming grief into life changing, new beginnings.
